Future Outlook

The Primary Markets have seen an elevated level of new supply delivered during 2023, 2024 and 2025 which has contributed to the deceleration in rent growth in the Primary Markets. Interest rates also continue to remain elevated which, along with higher levels of inflation and a softening in market conditions in late 2023, has significantly disrupted active and new construction of comparable communities in the Primary Markets that would otherwise have been delivered in the second half of 2025 or 2026. This potential reduction in construction may create a temporary imbalance in the supply of comparable multisuite residential properties in future periods, however, new developments are taking longer to lease-up. This imbalance, alongside the continued economic strength and solid fundamentals may be supportive of favourable supply and demand conditions for the MF Properties in future periods and could result in future increases in occupancy and rent growth.

The Fund continues to focus on managing its liquidity position, including having extended the Fund’s term to November 2026, in order to provide the Fund the opportunity to capitalize on potential improvements in the investment market that are anticipated in future periods, but may not materialize. Furthermore, the Fund continues to focus on liquidity management as the Fund previously amended several of its loan agreements, deferred the payment of asset management fees and has continued to focus on maximizing NOI at the MF Properties to maximize property value and to preserve as much liquidity as possible.
